

€10.6bn launch of a constellation of 290 satellites. Helping secure Europe's future in space. One transformative project.

Another client success story, supported by Addleshaw Goddard.

Getting Europe's €10.6bn space programme, Iris2, off the ground was hugely complex. With multiple stakeholders, vast sums and fast-evolving tech involved, we helped our client, Hispasat, negotiate a consensus, cap risk and secure substantial levels of funding. Now in place, the agreement has made the first step to 290 satellites in low and medium earth orbits – and a giant leap towards a more secure Europe.
