1	Employment Rights Act 2025	Employment Rights Act 2025 On 18 December 2025, the Employment Rights Bill received Royal Assent to become the Employment Rights Act 2025 (Act). See the Government's Factsheet: ERA 2025 (Overview) and below for implementation details. Most of the Act's provisions require commencement regulations to bring them into force, and many require further substantive regulations (following consultation) to give them full effect. On 3 February 2026, the Government updated the Implementation Timeline for changes being introduced in 2026. See the separate entries below for a summary of key changes expected to come into force on each of the following dates: October 2026, January 2027 and in 2027. For more details of the proposals contained in the Act as well as the consultation and implementation timetable, see our Employment Rights Act Tracker here.	Phased implementation over two years starting from 18 December 2025 until 2027. 		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reintroduce employer liability for third party harassment for all relevant protected characteristics. • Sufficient access to facilities and strengthened right to facility time off for trade union reps and statutory rights for trade union equality reps. • Extend the time limit for bringing an employment tribunal claim from 3 to 6 months. • New duty to provide workers with a written statement informing them of their right to join a trade union (and to remind them of this on a regular basis). • New rights for trade unions to access the workplace for recruitment and organising purposes. • Protection against detriment for taking part in protected industrial action. • Measures to deal more effectively with unfair practices during recognition and derecognition processes. • Amend the Procurement Act 2023 to protect transferring workers on outsourcing contracts and introduce a two-tier workforce code of practice for outsourced workers. • Employers required to consult workers/any recognised trade union about the allocation of tips and gratuities. For further details, see our Employment Rights Act Tracker here.
4	The Employment Rights Act 2025	The Employment Rights Act 2025: Changes coming into effect no earlier than October 2026 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Extend the time limit for bringing an employment tribunal claim from 3 to 6 months. For further details, see our Employment Rights Act Tracker here.	No earlier than October 2026
5	The Employment Rights Act 2025	The Employment Rights Act 2025: Reducing the qualifying period for unfair dismissal protection to 6 months and removing the compensation cap for unfair dismissal On 27 November 2025 the Government dropped their manifesto pledge for ‘day one’ unfair dismissal protection. Instead, they will: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Reduce the qualifying period for unfair dismissal protection from 24 months to six months; 2. Remove the overall limit on the compensatory award for unfair dismissal (both the 52-weeks’ pay and the compensation cap (currently £118,223 rising to £123,543 from 6 April 2026)); and 3. Remove the power to vary the qualifying period by regulations (meaning that the six-month limit could only be amended by primary legislation). For further details, see our Employment Rights Act Tracker here.	1 January 2027

6	The Employment Rights Act 2025	The Employment Rights Act 2025: Changes coming into effect in 2027 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Ban on fire and rehire for restricted variations (e.g. reduction in pay or holiday, changes to hours) except where no alternative to remain viable (January 2027) • Ban 'exploitative' zero hours contracts (including agency workers) - right to a guaranteed hours contract reflecting regular hours and reasonable notice of shift changes - compensation for curtailed or cancelled shifts • Alternative threshold for collective redundancy consultation determined by number of employees across the business as well as in one workplace • Specifying steps that are to be regarded as 'reasonable', to determine whether an employer has taken all reasonable steps to prevent sexual harassment • Day 1 right to flexible working as the default for all workers (refusal of requests only if reasonable on prescribed grounds) • Day 1 right to new statutory bereavement leave going beyond existing parental bereavement leave (to include pregnancy loss before 24 weeks) • Mandate gender pay gap and menopause support action plans (large firms) • Unlawful to dismiss a woman during pregnancy and up to 6 months after her RTW (except in specific circumstances) • Update blacklisting regulations to protect wider range of people • Industrial relations framework • Regulation of umbrella companies For further details, see our Employment Rights Act Tracker here.	2027
7	Equality Action Plans	Equality Action Plans guidance Employers with 250+ employees currently have the option to produce and publish a voluntary action plan alongside their gender pay gap data. Subject to legislation, this will become mandatory from spring 2027. The government has now published new step-by-step guidance for employers on the six steps to follow when creating an action plan to reduce their gender pay gap and to provide menopause support for employees. The six steps are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Step 1: Understanding the issues in the organisation and how to diagnose the gender pay gap using the data. • Step 2: Choosing a minimum of two actions from a list of 18 prescribed actions, one to address the gender pay gap and one for menopause support. 	To be mandatory for large employers in April 2027

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Step 3: Writing a supporting text for each action (up to 100 words) and a supporting narrative for the overall action plan (up to 200 words). • Step 4: Submitting the action plan on the government's gender pay gap service. • Step 5: Tracking the outcomes of the action plan. • Step 6: Reviewing the action plan annually.
8	Draft Equality (Race and Disability) Bill	Draft Equality (Race and Disability) Bill The Government announced the draft Equality (Race and Disability) Bill in the King's Speech in September 2024. The draft Bill will include the following reforms to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Enshrine in law the full right to equal pay for ethnic minorities and disabled people, making it much easier for them to bring unequal pay claims. • Introduce mandatory ethnicity and disability pay reporting for larger employers (those with 250+ employees) to help close the ethnicity and disability pay gaps. • Ensure that outsourcing of services can no longer be used by employers to avoid paying equal pay. In March 2025, the Government consulted on how to implement mandatory ethnicity and disability pay gap reporting for large employers (those with 250 or more employees) in Great Britain. In its response to the consultation the Government has confirmed that it intends to introduce the requirement for large employers with 250 or more employees. The reporting requirements will largely mirror the gender pay gap reporting requirements including reporting on the same six pay gap measures using the same reporting dates and online service. There is no timeline for introducing mandatory ethnicity and disability pay gap reporting yet. The government has published draft clauses to be included in legislation, but it is not clear precisely how and when these will be brought into force. We can also expect to see guidance to support employers with the proposed new reporting requirements in due course. In April 2025, the Government also conducted a call for evidence seeking feedback on areas of existing equality legislation and possible equality law reform to help shape the forthcoming Equality (Race and Disability) Bill. The call for evidence was wide ranging and included seeking views on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The prevalence of pay discrimination on the basis of race and disability. • Making the right to equal pay effective for ethnic minority and disabled people. 	tba. The Government consultation on the Equality (Race and Disability) Bill closed on 10 June 2025. A draft bill was expected to be published. In March 2025, the Minister for Equalities stated in the House of Commons that the draft Bill will be published later in the July 2024-May 2026 Parliamentary session. That session has now closed and the draft Equality (Race and Disability) Bill was notably absent from the King's Speech on 13 May 2026. This leaves some uncertainty over the timing of the reforms in this area. We await further news from Government.

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Measures to ensure that outsourcing of services can no longer be used by employers to avoid paying equal pay. Improving the enforcement of equal pay rights by establishing an Equal Pay Regulatory and Enforcement Unit with the involvement of trade unions, including ways that a new unit could strengthen equal pay provisions, whether by building on the Equality and Human Rights Commission’s existing role or through new functions. Improving pay transparency. Government is looking to build evidence before deciding whether changes in this area would be appropriate. Strengthening protections against combined discrimination. Dual discrimination in s14 of the Equality Act 2010 has never been brought into force despite repeated calls from Women and Equalities Committee. Creating and maintaining workplaces and working conditions free from harassment. The call for evidence closed on 30 June 2025 and the Government’s response is awaited.
9	Working Paper on non-compete clauses, published 26 November 2025	Consultation on non-compete clauses The Government has published a working paper seeking views on options for reforming non-compete clauses in employment contracts. The objectives set out in the paper are to seek to increase job mobility, reduce barriers to recruitment, promote competition for talent and avoid workers spending time out of the labour market in their area of expertise. Alternative policy options being put forward include: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Statutory time limit on the length of non-compete clauses (3-months) Statutory time limit on length of non-compete clauses according to company size Ban on non-compete clauses in employment contracts, making them unenforceable. Ban on non-compete clauses below a salary threshold, given that the highest earners most often have non-compete clauses in their contracts. Combining a ban below a salary threshold and a statutory time limit of 3 months. The Government was also seeking views on enforcement and whether the threat of high legal costs is an obstacle to bringing claims on restrictive covenants, including non-compete clauses. Interested parties had until 18 February 2026 to respond to the government consultation. We now await the government’s response which will be published in due course.	Government response awaited

10	Call for evidence on TUPE	Call for evidence on TUPE ON 8 April 2026 the Government published a call for evidence on TUPE which closes on 1 July 2026. It is a wide-ranging review looking at the current protections under TUPE, the consultation requirements, whether it is clear when a "relevant transfer" has taken place, the process of a TUPE transfer, the current guidance and support available, varying terms and conditions of employment in connection with the transfer and the cost and impact of a TUPE transfer. The Government will use the call for evidence to inform development of policy options to reform the TUPE Regulations.	Call for evidence closes on 1 July 2026.
11	Consultation on employment status	Employment status In 2025, the Government announced that it will publish a consultation on employment status by the end of 2025. It acknowledges that this is a complex issue, but it is committed to consult on tackling the pressing issues with the existing framework for employment status, such as substitution clauses. It will also consult on additional measures to strengthen protections for the self-employed, including health and safety protections. In January 2026, the government reaffirmed its commitment to tackling the issues and its aim to publish the consultation "as soon as possible". The consultation publication is still awaited.	TBC. Was expected by the end of 2025 but has not yet been published.
12	EHRC Statutory Code of Practice for Services, Public Functions and Associations and EHRC non-statutory interim guidance	EHRC Interim Guidance and Consultation on updates to its Code of Practice for Services, Public Functions and Associations The Equality and Human Rights Commission (EHRC) published its consultation to update its statutory Code of Practice for services, public functions and associations following the Supreme Court's For Women Scotland judgment. The EHRC made a number of technical amendments to its draft Code of Practice and sought views on whether the updates outlined in the consultation clearly articulate the practical implications of the judgment and enable those who will use the Code to understand, and comply with, the Equality Act 2010. The consultation closed on 30 June 2025 and an updated Code of Practice was handed to Government on 5 September 2025 for ministerial approval. The EHRC has confirmed that it has made some amendments to the draft Services Code following feedback it received from Government. The Government has now announced that it will take urgent action to lay the Services Code before Parliament in May. It will be laid for 40 days and will come into force after 40 days unless Parliament rejects it. Employers have been asking whether the EHRC's Employment Code of Practice will also be updated following the Supreme Court's judgment. Work on the Employment Code is expected to begin after the Services Code is complete.	The Government will take urgent action to lay the updated Services Code before Parliament in May 2026 and it will come into force 40 days later unless Parliament rejects it.

13	The Employment Rights Act 2025 (section 24) The Victims and Prisoners Act 2024 (Permitted Disclosures) Regulations 2025 The Victims and Courts Act 2026	Confidentiality clauses and non-disclosure agreements The Government has published a consultation on the misuse of non-disclosure agreements, with a closing date of 8 July 2026. The Employment Rights Act 2025 includes a provision at section 24 banning clauses/NDAs that seek to prevent allegations or disclosures of information relating to work-related harassment or discrimination. The Government recognises that in some cases, both parties may genuinely wish for confidentiality about certain details. The ERA therefore gives the Secretary of State powers to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • set criteria for “excepted NDAs” in limited, legitimate circumstances; and • specify situations where disclosures will always be allowed, even if an “excepted NDA” exists. This consultation is seeking views on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The conditions which need to be met for a non-disclosure agreement still to be valid (‘excepted agreement’) in cases of harassment and discrimination. E.g. workers to receive independent legal advice, a statutory 14-day cooling off period, whether the non-disclosure agreement should be time-limited. • The individuals or bodies who workers, covered by an excepted agreement, can speak to about the harassment and discrimination, irrespective of what their non-disclosure agreement says (‘permitted disclosure’). For example, a qualified lawyer and medical professional. • Expanding the types of individuals the legislation applies to beyond employees and workers. For example, some types of self-employed individuals. These new measures are expected to come into force in 2027. Section 17 of the Victim and Prisoners Act 2024 clarifies that confidentiality clauses and NDAs cannot be legally enforced if they prevent victims from reporting crime and will ensure information related to criminal conduct can be discussed with specified groups without fear of legal action, including police, lawyers, victim support services and close family members. New regulations came into force on 12 December 2025 adding to the list of persons to whom disclosures are permitted which are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority, for the purpose of a claim for compensation in relation to the relevant criminal conduct under the Criminal Injuries Compensation Scheme or the Victims of Overseas Terrorism Compensation Scheme. 	Section 24 of the Employment Rights Act 2025 is expected to come into force in 2027. The Victims and Prisoners Act 2024 (Permitted Disclosures) Regulations 2025 came into force on 12 December 2025. The Victims and Courts Act 2026 received Royal Assent on 29 April 2026. Regulations are needed to bring section 6 into force.

		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A court or tribunal, for the purpose of issuing or pursuing any proceedings in relation to a decision of the Criminal Injuries Compensation Authority made in connection with a claim mentioned above. • A person authorised to receive information on behalf of either of the above, for the relevant purposes mentioned above. Separately, the Victim and Courts Act 2026 received Royal Assent on 29 April 2026. Section 6 of the Victim and Courts Act 2026 will replace the current s.17 of the Victim and Prisoners Act 2024 (which came into force on 1 October 2025) and is intended to be a simpler protection allowing victims and direct witnesses of crime to disclose information about the conduct to anyone and for any purpose, not just to the bodies and for the purposes set out in the previous Act. An NDA would be void insofar as it precludes such a disclosure relating to criminal conduct, or the response of an employer or other party to the NDA to such conduct. Further regulations are needed to bring section 6 into force.
14	The Border Security, Asylum and Immigration Act 2025	Extending Right to Work Checks On 2 December 2025, the Border Security, Asylum and Immigration Act 2025 received Royal Assent. The Act expands the scope of the Right to Work Check scheme to those engaged under workers' contracts, individual sub-contractors and online matching services. It will include those working in the gig economy or on zero hours contracts and will require employers to confirm that individuals working on their behalf have the legal right to work in the UK before hiring them. Penalties for non-compliance include fines up to £45,000 for a first offence and up to £60,000 per illegal worker for repeated offences. In serious cases it could also lead to the closure of the business, director disqualification, seizure of earnings made as a result of illegal working and, where a criminal offence has occurred, a prison sentence of up to five years. A consultation on extending the right to work regime closed on 10 December 2025 and we await the Government's response. The expanded regime is expected to come into force in 2026.	Expected in 2026

1.	Corby v ACAS	Belief discrimination: opposition to critical race theory An employment tribunal held that a claimant's opposition to critical race theory (as opposed to his anti-racist beliefs based on the ideas of Martin Luther King Jr) is a protected belief under the Equality Act 2010. The claimant's beliefs passed all five stages of the Grainger test and were therefore capable of protection under the EqA. An appeal has been lodged and a preliminary hearing was heard by the EAT on 4 September 2025.	Preliminary hearing heard in the EAT on 4 September 2025.
2.	Miller v University of Bristol	Discrimination: Protected philosophical belief An employment tribunal held that an academic's anti-Zionist beliefs qualified as a protected philosophical belief under the Equality Act 2010 and that his summary dismissal was an act of direct discrimination and was unfair. The case was heard by the EAT on 12 November 2025. Judgment is awaited.	Heard in the EAT on 12 November 2025. Judgment awaited.
3.	Augustine v Data Cars Ltd	Employment status Although a part-time private hire driver was treated less favourably than a full-time comparator, it did not breach the Part-Time Workers (Less Favourable Treatment) Regulations 2000. The EAT felt bound to follow the ruling of the Court of Session (though not strictly bound by the Court's decisions) which applied a "sole reason" test. The EAT preferred a construction which considered the "effective and predominant cause" of the less favourable treatment. The case was appealed to the Court of Appeal. While a majority considered the Court of Session case (McMenemy v Capita Business Services Ltd) was wrongly decided, it held that it was highly desirable that the decision be followed, given that it pertained to a statutory provision applicable throughout Great Britain. Given its misgivings about McMenemy, the Court granted leave to appeal to the Supreme Court so that the issue can be decisively resolved. The case was heard in the Supreme Court on 7 May 2026. Judgment is awaited.	Heard in the Supreme Court on 7 May 2026. Judgment awaited.
4.	Rice v Wicked Vision Ltd; Barton Turns Developments v Treadwell	Whistleblowing detriment The EAT considered that in a whistleblowing claim it was only possible to bring a claim that dismissal amounted to a detriment under s47B ERA if it was not possible to bring a claim for dismissal for making a protected disclosure under s103A ERA.	The appeal is due to be heard in the Supreme Court on 21 May 2026.

NO	CASE	SUMMARY AND IMPACTS	CURRENT STATUS
		The Court of Appeal held that employers can be vicariously liable under s47B ERA 1996 for co-workers who subject employees to dismissal amounted to a detriment in whistleblowing cases. It felt bound by the precedent set in Timis and another v Osipov [2018] (EWCA) which established that the ERA 1996 does not prevent employees from bringing detriment claims against co-workers for dismissal, with corresponding vicarious liability against employers. It noted that the conflicting interpretation of the statutory provisions can only be resolved by the Supreme Court or by legislative amendment. Permission to appeal to the Supreme Court was granted on 5 December 2025. The appeal is due to be heard in the Supreme Court on 21 May 2026.
5.	Thandi and others v Next Retail Ltd and another	Equal Pay An employment tribunal found that the retailer Next breached equal pay law by paying its warehouse staff more than its shop-floor sales staff, despite the jobs being of equal value. The tribunal determined that the material factors relied on by Next to justify the pay disparity for basic pay, including market forces, indirectly discriminated against female employees, who predominantly worked in sales roles. Next's argument that the pay difference was motivated by cost-cutting measures was rejected, as cost-cutting alone was not a legitimate aim. For the time being, this is an employment tribunal decision, so it is not binding on future tribunals. If it is not overturned on appeal, it could have significant ramifications for employers who want to defend equal pay claims on the basis they are paying market rate for certain roles. An appeal has been lodged and a preliminary hearing was heard by the EAT on 22 May 2025. Due to be heard in the EAT on 16 June 2026.	A preliminary hearing was heard by the EAT on 22 May 2025. 6.	Lister v New College Swindon	Religion or belief discrimination: gender-critical beliefs A Tribunal dismissed claims for discrimination where claimant was dismissed for refusing to use a gender transitioning student's name and chosen pronouns and for subjecting the student to trans-phobic discrimination and harassment. An appeal has been granted as there were arguable points as to the boundary between belief and manifestation of belief and unqualified rights to hold a belief under ECHR. 7.	Appiah v Tripod Partners Ltd	Agency worker and unlawful deduction from wages An employment tribunal held that a consultant who contracted with a recruitment agency through a service company was a worker for the agency for the purposes of an unlawful deduction from wages claim under the Employment Rights Act 1996.	Due to be heard in the EAT on 29 October 2026.

8.	Stobart v Zen Internet	Unfair dismissal – capability The EAT held that in the case of a senior executive who had been dismissed for capability, the tribunal had wrongly confined its consideration to what would have occurred after notice of termination was given, rather than from the date when the capability concerned crystallised, and had not given adequate reasons for its conclusions as to timings. An appeal to the Court of Appeal is due to be heard on 24 November 2026.	An appeal to the Court of Appeal is due to be heard on 24 November 2026.
9.	Robert Gagliardi v Evolution Capital Management LLC	Breach of contract - Bonus The High Court awarded a trader $5.385million (plus interest) in a breach of contract claim following his employer's refusal to pay him a discretionary bonus where the employer was contractually required to award a bonus within a target range of 10 to 15% of profit based solely on the trader's revenue contributions to the relevant funds. The High Court summarised the law of trust and confidence in relation to bonuses and held that it required the decision maker to exercise their contractual discretion in good faith in accordance with its contractual purpose and not irrationally, arbitrarily or capriciously and to take into account matters which they ought to take into account and not take into account irrelevant factors. The decision is being appealed. The case is due to be heard in the Court of Appeal by 9 April 2027.	Due to be heard in the Court of Appeal by 9 April 2027.
10.	Pal v Accenture (UK) Ltd	Unfair dismissal – Polkey reduction The EAT overturned a tribunal decision to apply a 100% Polkey reduction in a capability dismissal claim. The tribunal failed to assess what the employer would have done had it complied with its own policies, instead it applied an incorrect counterfactual by speculating about introducing a new policy mirroring the policy actually applied. The EAT questioned whether dismissal under the employer's "progression-based performance model" could be potentially fair for capability, as it related to readiness for promotion rather than ability to perform the work the employee was required to do under the employment contract. It was also held that the tribunal had failed to analyse properly whether the employee was disabled due to endometriosis. The tribunal failed to consider properly the effects of her condition on her day-to-day activities and only referred to her absence from work. On appeal, that reasoning was held to be "wholly inadequate". An appeal is due to be heard in the Court of Appeal by 10 May 2027.	An appeal is due to be heard in the Court of Appeal by 10 May 2027.

11.	Afshar and others v Addison Lee Ltd	Deductions from wages A tribunal held that Addison Lee drivers were workers for the purposes of holiday pay, national minimum wage and deductions from wages claims. It went on to find that the two-year backstop on deductions from wages claims in the Employment Rights Act 1996 was ultra vires and of no effect. An appeal has been granted. 12.	Peggie v Fife Health Board and another	Harassment A tribunal held that nurse who was suspended for complaining that she had to share a changing room with a transgender woman was harassed by Health Board but it dismissed other claims. The tribunal acknowledged the For Women Scotland judgment but concluded that it did not result in it being inherently unlawful for a trans female (a biological male under the Equality Act 2010) to be given permission to use a female changing room at work, but nor did having the protected characteristic of gender reassignment mean that permission to use the changing room was necessarily lawful. The ET appreciated there was a conflict between protected characteristics, but the Equality Act 2010 does not provide a test in such cases. It concluded that the test that should be applied was one of “objective justification” (derived from Supreme Court judgment in Bank Mellat v HM Treasury (No 2) (2014) AC 700). The decision is being appealed. 13.	Kelly v Leonardo UK Ltd	Sex discrimination A tribunal dismissed claims of direct and indirect sex discrimination and harassment brought by a female employee who objected to her employer permitting transgender women to use the female toilet facilities. The tribunal found that the policy applied equally to men and women and was not inherently less favourable to a woman. It did not put female staff at a particular disadvantage compared to male staff. Even if it had, it would have been objectively justified by legitimate aims of treating transgender employees lawfully and fostering an inclusive workplace. In respect of the harassment claim, the policy did not have the prohibited effect of violating the claimant’s dignity or creating an intimidating, hostile, degrading, humiliating or offensive environment for her. The decision is being appealed. 14.	Bailey v (1) Stonewall Equality Ltd (2) Garden Court Service Company (3) representatives of Garden Court Chambers	Religion and belief: did a barristers' chambers discriminate against a barrister due to her 'gender critical' philosophical beliefs and did the organisation Stonewall instruct, cause or induce that discrimination? An employment tribunal held that Garden Court Chambers had discriminated against a barrister for holding 'gender critical' beliefs and for expressing misgivings about Stonewall's policy aims, but rejected the claimant's claim against Stonewall for instructing, causing or inducing that discrimination. The employment tribunal found that the communications from Stonewall relating to the claimant were just a protest and not sufficient to amount to an inducement, or attempted inducement, of any particular course of action by Garden Court. On appeal, the EAT concluded that the employment tribunal had not erred in rejecting Ms Bailey's claim against Stonewall. A £20,000 costs award was made against representatives of Garden Court Chambers for unreasonable conduct of their solicitor in preparing the trial bundle in the employment tribunal case. The Court of Appeal dismissed an appeal and upheld that the tribunal's decision that Stonewall did not cause or induce Garden Court Chambers to discriminate against the barrister. 15.	Chaudhry v Paperchase Products Ltd and another	Insolvency – recovering basic award for unfair dismissal The EAT held that an employee cannot recover a basic award for unfair dismissal from the Secretary of State following their employer's insolvency without an employment tribunal decision making such an award. The Employment Rights Act 1996 is clear that an "award" means a decision that a payment should be made, not just an entitlement that crystallises on dismissal, despite arguments that these provisions could be interpreted differently by applying EU principles. 16.	Ngole v Touchstone Leeds	Religion or Belief Discrimination: Withdrawal of job offer A tribunal held that the retraction of a job offer from a Christian mental health support worker was direct discrimination. The charity does a significant amount of work with people in the LGBTQI+ community and the claimant had made Facebook posts expressing negative views about homosexuality. Withdrawing the job offer before the second interview was not proportionate and put too great a limitation on the claimant's freedom of expression. On appeal, the EAT held that the ET must analyse separately each reason for alleged discriminatory treatment. The ET had failed to determine whether for each reason it constituted impermissible objection to protected religious beliefs or potentially justifiable objection to inappropriate manifestation of those beliefs. The matter was remitted to the same tribunal. The claimant has lodged permission to appeal to the Court of Appeal.	Judgment published on 16 February 2026. Claimant has lodged permission to appeal.
